- Our team commitment is to pursue the answer to this central question:

Flight Fare Prediction : -

Flight Fare Prediction and Analytics Given that air travel demand is expected to surge in the summer of 2024, we've decided to focus on historical flight fare data. We aim to analyze which airlines typically offer the most affordable fares and predict the likely fare trends for the upcoming peak season.

- In pursuing this question, you can count on each of us to (list what you are pledging to each other in this effort. At minimum, it should include your pledge around team meetings, the individual and shared work, how you will communicate with one another):

All team members are committed to collaboratively working on this project and are ready to assist each other as needed. Each individual is prepared to invest their time and effort into the project. We've agreed to hold weekly meetings to monitor our progress towards our objectives.

- When we fail in our commitments to one another, we will... (describe how you will deal with conflict)

In the hypothetical scenario that we don't meet our commitments, we plan to seek guidance from our seniors and professors to identify where we fell short.

- If we cannot resolve our conflict as a team, we will... (describe your second plan if your team is not able to heal a fracture)

If we're unable to resolve our disagreements, we'll consider altering the project's scope and aim to finish it within a week for immediate submission, provided this is allowed.

- We have exchanged contact information for each other (e.g., email, phone numbers) and stated our preferred way of communicating.

Yes, we have exchanged the contact information for each other.

- I commit to the above (each print your name, sign your name and date the document):
